ON LIMITED EDITION WHITE VINYL!

Two-time Boston Music Award winner Moe Pope and Duck Down producer The Arcitype, who has produced music for artists such as Vinnie Paz and Ruste Juxx, have come together to release a new album of original, sample-free music entitled 'My Monday Morning Music.'

The Album takes the listener on a journey of beats, melodies and lyrics that range from cinematic styles, to harder, grittier beats. Along with Moe Pope, the album features a wide array of well-known artists such as Dua (Bad Rabbits), Ruste Juxx, Reks, Jake Merhmann and Chris Klaxton (Tan Vampires), Dutch Rebelle, Tea Leigh, Fran-P, and John Robinson.

Moe Pope is an acclaimed hip-hop artist, songwriter, and contemporary painter, and winner of the Boston Music Award for Hip Hop Artist Of The Year two years running. His works (Including 2013's critical smash Let The Right Ones In with producer Rain) have received widespread praise from outlets such as The Boston Herald, Stuff Magazine, RadioBDC, The Boston Phoenix, and iTunes Rewind. His style of hip-hop draws equally from the alternative traditions of A Tribe Called Quest, the abstract prose of Bob Dylan, the adrenaline-soaked fervor of Bad Brains, and the eccentricities of Radiohead.

The Arcitype is a producer from New York, former lead guitarist for Blues/Funk group Tip Top Deluxe, transplanted to Cambridge, MA, who has previously worked with Moe Pope as well as the likes of Scarface, Guilty Simpson, Ill Bill, Kool G. Rap, and many more. He is an alumni of Emerson College, and a mainstay of the Boston hip-hop scene, as the proprietor of AR Classic Records, and The Bridge Sound & Stage, one of the premier rap recording studios in Massachusetts.

The Arcitype himself has said of My Monday Morning Music that the album "...was birthed during the making and mixing of Let The Right Ones In, and it's a different type of sound for both Moe and Myself, a more standard (while more musical) boom-bap direction than that of Moe Pope and Rain, whose sound was more derived from an indie rock inspiration."
