New England Glam Rockers 'n Shakers WATTS "make a superb retro rock 'n' roll racket," says Rob Forbes (Leicester Bangs).

A dynamic four-piece aptly named for the gentleman drummer of the Rolling Stones, Watts' sound combines all the best elements of '70s glam, old school punk, new wave, British Invasion and straight up rock-n-roll to create a timeless amalgam that is at once familiar and fresh. The band was named one of the "Bands You Must Hear" by the UK's Classic Rock magazine.

Watts' latest onslaught "Flash Of White Light" carries on in their tradition of a blistering, raucous record with a full set of rock-n-roll songs plucked ripe for the radio. Just imagine if AC/DC, Slade, The Sweet, Cheap Trick, the Space Ace and The Knack coming together and forming one insane all star band... Whelp, this is what it would look n' sound like!!

"Truly stylish Retro-Rock with a swaggering, Stones-style edge from the stalwart Boston quartet."
- The Big Takeover

"A band built on a bedrock of riff-powered songs that have as much to do with swagger as they do melody"
- The Boston Globe

"This is how rock albums should sound. No posturing, no excess, just proper songs played with ballsy abandon... these guys make a superb, retro rock 'n' roll racket."
- Leicester Bangs

"...crunching riffs that carry a cracking melody and considerable swagger"
- Vive Le Rock Magazine UK

"A riot of early '70s Stones-style garagey riffs, all rip-roaring, and ready to raise hell."
- The Metro
