"Here I am again, here I am the only one again, and it's a story that will never end..."

Ebbot Lundberg, mastermind of The Soundtrack Of Our Lives (1994-2012) and Union Carbide Productions (1986-1993) is back. His new album is called „For The Ages to Come“, which he has recorded together with his new band The Indigo Children. The five young lads make up Ebbot Lundberg's experiences and expressive power in a fantastic way.

Ebbot, who in the meantime is 50-years old, is expressing his talent in impressive albums and concerts. With his experiences and enthusiasm he is taking The Indigo Children back into psychedelic spheres and reveals to us vital songs of the golden age of pop music. As a young band The Indigo Children were already supporting The Soundtrack Of Our Lives. Ebbot Lundberg and The Indigo Children is a symbiosis of young and hungry musicians and an extraordinary pop icon resulting in a perfectly cross-generational dialog.

“For The Ages To Come” is a 42-minutes odyssey including ten anthems which Ebbot has not composed since “Behind the Music”.

Since the split of TSOOL Ebbot could not remain passive. He released a deeply-psychedelic “one-track album”, he was guest on several Swedish TV shows and furthermore was showing his acting talent in a TV-drama. Finally, with the 4th series of “Så mycket bättre” in 2013 Ebbot became famous in Sweden. Or like Ebbot says: “I'm a lot more known, I'm suddenly doing a lot more selfies...”
