

This monster Underground Disco classic was produced by the legendary Patrick Adams and it's considered to be one of his best and rarest pressings. Released in 1977 on P&P Records, "Dance Dance Dance" was ahead of its time laying ground for the signature sound he'd soon to be known for on productions for the likes of Inner Life, Loleatta Holloway, Bumblebee Unlimited, and Musique. This Classic release combines a smooth blend of Latin rhythms, an infectious bass line and Arp keyboards that create a dubbed out cosmic vibe, while Marta Acuna's dreamy vocals glide in and out. This is the perfect tune to close out an evening of hot summer dancing, a NYC Disco Classic. This Highly sought after and extremely rare 12" has seen other lives as well, heavily sampled in Underground House tracks like Alex Neri's "Planet Funk" and covered by Joey Negro and his Sunburst Band.

"Absolute disco classic right here... out on P&P back in 1977. One of our favorites... a record everyone needs to hear!" - Bicep
