Matt Embree is a singer and guitarist best known as the front-man of the Rx Bandits. Embree has, in the past ten years of his career, established himself as a socially outspoken and musically diverse singer/songwriter/musician. He has contributed to a number of hip-hop, alternative, progressive, and psychedelic rock bands such as Rx Bandits, The Sound of Animals Fighting, and Dispatch. Embree has developed a strong following that thrives on experiencing his musically explosive live shows where musicianship is paramount.

This new solo record “2019” is a collection of tunes he created to stave off the impending madness he feels when he is not creating music. Altho not very skilled at writing blurbs for one-sheets, he somehow managed to play all the instruments on the record except for the drums on a couple songs. Jody Giachello (HAIM) was gracious enough to lend a hand with those. This record is a strange and tantalizing blend of psych rock, prog and synth wave for people who love good unique music.

FFO: Unknown Mortal Orchestra, Rx Bandits, Alt-J, Radiohead, Cursive and Blonde Redhead
